Notice,

To Wheelwrights, Blacksmiths, Tanners, Harness-Makers, Saddlers, Hatters, &c.

BELIEVING as I do, that PROVIDENCE, at Fairfax Court-House, would be a suitable situation for mechanics of the above description, I offer to such, lots in that village for sale, on ground rent for ever—will build and furnish suitable houses and rent to them; or furnish brick to them to build with; and invite any who feel disposed to settle there, for the purpose of carrying on their respective trades to advantage, to come and view the situation. It is a very public place, the centre of the county, where the superior and county courts are held. The Little River Turnpike Road passes through this little town from Alexandria westward, and where all the public meetings for the county, &c. are held; and where trades of the aforesaid description being carried on, would meet with great encouragement, and be a public convenience to the country around. No situation can be more healthy—good water, and fire wood cheap. Mechanics of the above description must generally depend on the country people, farmers, &c. to be their customers. Here they would be in a convenient situation for all the purposes. I invite a call, and view for themselves. I would also furnish lots adjacent, from one to five acres each, for cultivation, pasture, &c. on moderate terms; all of which can be shown, and terms made known, on application to RICH'D. RATCLIFFE.

THE CASUAL REMARKER.

This tale a Sybil nurse aread,
She softly stroked my youngling head,
And when the tale was done,
Thus some are born, my son, she cries,
With base impediments to rise,
And some are born with none:
But virtue can itself advance
To what the favorite fools of chance
By fortune seem'd designed;
Virtue can gain the odds of fate
And from itself shake off the weight,
Upon the unworthy mind.

The moral contained in these concluding lines of Parnell's Fairy Tale, deserves more than common attention in times of great scarcity of money. The pecuniary embarrassments in Europe and America have had, and still have, a tendency to shake commercial confidence, which now ought to be upheld by a stricter regard to virtue and honor. In such times, those born without capital, (who are the majority in this country,) have 'impediments' to overcome, which require more than common fortitude and skill to surmount. The great fault in our merchants is overtrading; ambition carries them too far; they draw too largely upon hope, and experience, like an unwelcome Notary, records with appalling hand the dismaying protests. Another fault is that men trading upon credit, live too well, are too extravagant in their families and indulgencies, and are deficient in prudence and preparation for the payment of their debts, trusting to chance or miracles for funds.—Few persons are satisfied with decent competence, with moderate gains, and a small though sure income.

All ranks of our citizens are incessantly pressing upwards to higher stations than their circumstances and property justify; and this ambition never ceases to torment its victims until it turns over the ladder upon which they are climbing, and wounds and cripples them by the fall. A third fault is, too readily taking credit for large sums, without feeling an anxiety about the day of payment, which like the king of terrors, comes some sooner or later, and often with as awful an aspect and as peremptory a requirement. The period between the origin of a debt and its extinction, is like the time between the birth and the decease of a man, a period of probation; and disgrace and punishment, contempt and misery are the portion of those, who "do not work out their salvation." A man who takes a credit is the servant of the creditor until payment is made: he sells his liberty, and his industry, and mortgages his property and honor until the debt is cancelled.

Now the poet says, "Virtue can gain the odds of fate," and this is no poetical fiction. Virtue has an extensive signification: it includes caution, foresight, temperance, judgment, industry, strict integrity, self-denial, frugality, punctuality, honor;—it detests extravagance, heedlessness, dissipation, gambling, overreaching, embarrassing credits, deception, hazardous enterprizes, and temporary expedients. Whoever therefore has virtue commonly puts his bankruptcy beyond the ordinary operations of chance; it must be an extraordinary occurrence which subjects him to the power of creditors and the sacrifice of his property. But should he, subdued by inevitable misfortunes, fail to pay his debts, virtue, unimpaired, will soon restore him. If the law will not preserve the equitable rights of foreign or distant, or unsuspicious creditors, he will if he can, and he will consent to no arrangement which pays one man (perhaps the least deserving, as most griping and severe men commonly are,) the whole amount of his claim, and leaves nothing to more confiding and honorable creditors; a practice sometimes prevalent, always unjust—against the policy of a commercial nation—and furnishing one of the strongest arguments in favor of a national Bankrupt Law.

Since 1814 the mercantile business of the world has flown in new and untried channels, the course and windings and dangers of which are not even yet ascertained. The extraordinary scarcity of the precious metals, (the miners and coiners having become belligerents) the astonishing number of soldiers converted in Europe and the U. States, into agriculturists and artizans, the increased quantity of merchandize and its diminished consumption, and the diversion of capital out of its long accustomed line of employment into new courses, are some of the principal causes of the present commercial embarrassment, and will produce numerous failures, unless counteracted by great prudence and assiduity.

A calculation has been made that more than one half of the merchants who have engaged in commerce in this country have failed in business, such are the vicissitudes of trade, its temptations, hazards and uncertainty; and if this in good times was true, how much more virtue and discretion is requisite at the present hour to prevent such disastrous catastrophes? Let us then urge our mercantile men, one of the most important and useful classes of the community, to demonstrate in their conduct the truth of the poet's assertion, that "Virtue can gain the odds of fate;" and thus secure themselves, their families, friends and country, from the disgrace and distress of broken faith, dishonorable manœuvres, fraudulent bankruptcies, and infamous repute.

FROM THE VILLAGE RECORD.

'Brindle don't kick the milk pail over.'

The happiest hours of my life the hours of infancy and youth, were passed in the midst of the high hills which frown over the Wissahickon. The situation was very romantic. My father's mill, (for I am the son of a miller,) stood on the edge of the stream. The waggon road which passed through this secluded spot, separated it from his humble dwelling. In the rear of the house, and almost against its walls rose a huge and rugged hill, and opposite, on the other side of the stream, another ridge equally high; from a spring on the top of which, a pure and wholesome stream of living water was conducted under the bed of the creek to the very door. I think I can still see all the parts of the scene, which is so endeared to my heart by the remembrance of the happiness I enjoyed amidst them. In June, when the soft and tender reign of spring had clothed the hills with verdure, and yielded to the more vigorous rule of early summer, the scene was clothed in all its glory. On the edge of the stream was spread a soft carpet of tender grass, intermingled with flowers, which owed their beauty alone to the hand of nature, while from the foot of the hills on both sides rose, 'stage above stage' to their summits, the delicately white, spotted with red clusters of fragrant laurel blossom, which diffused through the valley the perfume of this garden of beauty. Here passed my earliest hours, free from care, and in comparative solitude. The monotonous dashing of the stream which fell hard by, the clack of the mill, the crack of the farmer's whip, urging his cattle to and from the mill and above all, the singing of the feathered inhabitants of the surrounding hills, are still familiar to the ear of memory. But there was one object remembered with tenderer interest. It was Mary the milk maid.—She was then a girl of fifteen, lovely, innocent and artless; the lilly of the valley could boast of no superiority when compared with the fairness of her skin, or the wild rose that flourished in unsubdued luxuriance around, with the rose of health that bloomed on her cheek. Without possessing an uncommon regularity of features, Mary was of all the flowers amidst which she flourished, herself the fairest flower; and what is better than this, she was as good as she was beautiful. Smile not wise reader, at my description I am not, nor was not, in love with Mary.—She was the nurse whose neck my infant arms have often encircled—in whose eyes my smiles were reflected, and in whose heart my joys were felt—who pressed my lips with kisses warm and innocent as those of the western breeze, which sighed along the flowery vale at summer's tranquil eve.

Poor Mary! she was—she is no more an inhabitant of this world. While I was yet a school-boy, she married a man who knew not half her excellence, who merited the enjoyment of less than half. A short time they lived happily, but that 'bane of life' the bottle, ruined her husband. Mary's heart sunk beneath the weight of neglect, concealed penury and inward grief, arrayed in outward smiles, until, like the flower which she resembled, she drooped and died.

It is because she loved me, because I dearly loved her and cherish her memory with melancholy pleasure, that I recollect some of her simple 'sayings'—one of which I have selected as my motto:—'Brindle, don't kick the milk pail over,' she usually said to a restless cow she used to milk to whom the caution was very necessary, and might perhaps have been useful, had she understood it; but though she may not have profited by the injunction, yet I have, and others may.

When I have seen a farmer toiling thro' the heat, and bearing the burthen of many a summer's day in his fields, gathering their rich produce into his granaries and store houses in autumn, and when winter, 'clothed in clouds and storms comes on,' instead of enjoying the honest comforts of his fire side, and cherishing a young and promising family, seeking in the bar-room for pleasure, I am always ready to say, Friend, 'don't kick the milk pail over.'

When I see a journeyman tradesman laboring with 'might and main' towards the end of the week, as I think to earn something handsome to carry to his family on Saturday night, but in reality, as I find afterwards, that he may frolic and carouse with companions like himself, on Sunday, get drunk, 'on blue Monday,' be sick and repent on Tuesday, and go to work on Wednesday, full of wise resolutions, which he will not practise, I cannot help thinking, 'he kicks the milk pail over.'

When I see a mechanic or a trader, using every honest means to amass wealth, and when he finds his business prosper, and wealth flow into his coffers, as fast as he can reasonably expect, then set about building a house, buying expensive furniture, giving and receiving many invitations to parties of pleasure, and indulging himself in the enjoyment of expensive amusements, losing his time and neglecting his business, I think 'he is kicking the milk pail over.'

When I see a mechanic, instead of steadily pursuing the business to which he was bred, neglecting it, and fatiguing himself in endeaving to find some quicker mode of making a fortune, by the invention of some new and wonder-working machine—'perpetual motion,' for instance—I think, society may perchance, be benefited by thy labors, but thou art likely to 'kick thy own milk pail over.'

When I see parents daily enforcing by precepts the virtues of industry, economy and good housekeeping, and the lessons of religion and morality, while their examples inculcate the reverse—I think—Friends, you are 'kicking your own milk pails over.'

Above all, when I see a government cultivating peace with its neighbors, encouraging industry, cherishing the fine arts, patronizing learning, securing merit from oblivion, and giving confidence to the practice of private virtue, by practising it in public—thinks I, that's a fine pail of milk—steady boys—mind Mary's admonition, and 'don't kick it over.'

From the Memoirs of Benjamin Franklin.

CROAKERS.

"There are Croakers in every country, always boding its ruin. Such an one there lived in Philadelphia, a person of note, an elderly man, with a wise look, and a very grave manner of speaking; his name was Samuel Mickle. This gentleman, a stranger to me, stopped me one day at my door and asked me if I was the young man who had lately opened a new Printing House? Being answered in the affirmative, he said he was sorry for me, because it was an expensive undertaking, and the expense would be lost, for Philadelphia was a sinking place, the people already half bankrupts, or near being so; all the appearances of the contrary, such as new buildings and the rise of rents, being to his certain knowledge fallacious! for they were in fact among the things that would ruin us. Then he gave me such a detail of misfortunes now existing, or that were soon to exist, that he left me half melancholy. Had I known him before I engaged in this business, probably I never should have done it.—This person continued to live in this decaying place, and to declaim in the same strain, refusing for many years to buy a house there because all was going to destruction; and at last I had the pleasure of seeing him give five times as much for one, as he might have bought it for when he first began croaking."

From the Baltimore Telegraph,

CUSTOM-HOUSE BONDS.

It is very generally agreed among merchants and traders of the United States at this moment, and in this city in particular, that the principal cause of distress at present, is the heavy sum which has been daily required by the regular importers, to pay duties on goods, which in many cases are laying on hand, unsaleable from the scarcity of money and stagnation of business. To meet these bonds as long as it could be done, the merchant has resorted to the private banks for discount; and the payment (being made in fact by those to the office of the bank of the U. States) has caused a constant return on them for specie. This, at length has obliged the private banks, whose affairs are otherwise in an eligible situation, to look to their own safety, and gradually to curtail those facilities, until they have entirely ceased.—The treasury must soon feel the consequences, and meet with delays and ultimate losses; whereas, if a proper view were presented to the head of that department, before the evil is too deep rooted for a remedy, the public would feel more confidence in each other, as well as in the banks. Let the the treasury view the subject as it ought; as it will find its interest in the prompt relief which is in its power to afford. Time only now is wanting to put things in a proper train. The merchants who would ask indulgence now, of a few months, in the payments of their bonds, can give ample security for the time they wish, on the very goods for which the bonds were given. The time approaches when the consumers of these goods will give in exchange for them the produce of the soil, at prices which will allow the exporter to renew his business, by underselling foreigners in their own markets. Flour is now down to $5, and other articles must be in proportion.—While we are thus converting the labor of the country into produce, and that again into active funds, the necessity for new importations ceases; because enough goods are already in the country for a supply. Activity will be produced at home and with it general life and circulation, in spite of some unfortunate failures, which result less, perhaps, from their own faults than the error of the banks—because the latter have given the bulk of their means to a few, instead of regarding their own independence and the benefits of diffusing the use of them, by a general division of discounts.—Much of these funds will, however, soon come again into circulation, by the changes that over-trading and false principles of banking have produced. Specie (or its equivalent) will be brought back from foreign countries by the exporting merchant, the moment he can buy it at its proper rate at home, and have opportunity to undersell foreigners in their own markets. While, instead of the temptation to export specie for a benefit it will be suspended by the low price of our own produce, and the luxury which gives encouragement to our India trade will be curtailed, because our people will buy only what they want, and learn from necessity the secret of all wealth, viz. to expend less than they earn.

But coming back to the point. Let the indulgence proposed by the treasury to the merchants, in the payment of their bonds, be pressed; let the merchants, as I have before said, have time to dispose of the goods already imported; then will cease the principal cause of uneasiness at present. The private banks will be relieved from the exhausting calls on them for specie to pay the treasury; they will have it in their power to avert much evil that is threatened. It cannot be believed that the distinguished gentleman now at the head of the treasury, will oppose a fair investigation, or grant relief if it is properly sought. He must know that the bonds begin now to lay over, and are increasing every hour. Will he be better able to meet his project of paying four millions of coin to the foreign creditor in October, by persevering in the present system? I undertake boldly to predict that he will not; and if he should ever find the means, thro' the bank of the United States, that he will regret it when too late. Specie payments must cease when extremity obliges it. We shall then begin to talk of preventing its export. But to use a vulgar phrase "the stable will be locked when the horse has escaped." Then we may regret in vain, that we have neglected to profit by the experience and example of the rest of the world. We see by the last accounts from England, that she dare not resume the long suspended payment of specie, altho' her exports exceed her imports in the last year, twenty millions sterling.

I therefore respectfully suggest, that a few of our most independent and intelligent merchants should immediately meet together, and among themselves select a deputation to wait on the secretary of the treasury. This better judgment will best perceive that the only effectual resource is to be found in this way. They are best acquainted with the state of the town, as well as the means of relief. They will be entitled to the gratitude of the public for a little sacrifice of their time and ease, to benefit the community. A. CITIZEN.

Norfolk, May 24.

We learn from Gibraltar that orders have been issued by the Spanish authorities, for a hot impressment in all ports, upon the coast of the Mediterranean, to obtain sailors to man the ships which are to convoy the grand expedition to Buenos Ayres, and is expected every day to be enforced in Cadiz and other ports in that quarter. It is believed that this measure will not be very well relished by the poor sailors, when a more civil way of procuring officers meets with the most marked opposition. We are informed from the most unquestionable authority, that no less than six different commanders have been ordered to the San Talmo, 74, one of the ships intended to accompany the expedition, and that all of them refused to act. The plea for this refusal is, not from any fear of the patriots, but a belief "that their own men are not to be trusted, and that all confidence in the fidelity and loyalty of those who are destined for South America, is lost."—"The king," say they, is losing his power, and we our honor."

Extensive purchases of provisions were making at Gibraltar, by the last accounts, for the use of the expedition preparing at Cadiz, and much wit and wisdom is said to have been displ yed by the Spanish government to raise money upon a pledge of payment on the arrival of the Africa, 74, and Sabina Frigate, which are expected from Vera Cruz with millions? Until these ships arrive, but little can be done towards the completion of the expedition. In the mean time we are told that the impudent Patriot privateers are daily peeping into the harbors of Cadiz. A Buenos Ayrean privateer of 22 guns was cruizing off Cadiz about the middle of March, occasionally taking a "bird's eye view of" of the bay, to learn the progress of the expedition, and intercepting vessels in the very teeth of the batteries. A strong reinforcement of these troublesome customers was soon expected, when the tranquility of the waters of the Mediterranean will no doubt be disturbed, than which nothing could be more practicable, and nothing better calculated to bring home to the "business and bosoms" of the Spaniards, the wretched situation of their affairs.

We further learn that Mr. Wm. D. Robinson, (whose release from confinement in Cadiz, on his parole, we announced a few days ago,) has made his escape from that place and arrived at Gibraltar. It appears that as soon as Mr. Erving knew of his arrival at Cadiz, he immediately commenced a negociation with the Marquis de Yrujo for Mr. R's release from captivity—and through the intercession of the American Consul at Cadiz, the governor was prevailed upon not to remove his prisoner from Cadiz, until further orders from Madrid—meanwhile Mr. R. obtained a personal interview with the governor, with whom his eloquence prevailed so far as to obtain for himself the indulgence of a parole. On the 14th March he was secretly informed that orders were received from Madrid, severely reprimanding the governor for his generosity to Mr. R. and commanding him to put into immediate execution the order before confided to him, directing the prisoner to be sent to Ceuta; he was further informed that the Town Adjutant with a guard was then in pursuit of him. The recollection of his 30 months of the severest hardships of captivity rushed upon his mind and determined him to fly from his parole. He effected his escape on the same day, in a vessel laying in Cadiz bay, the captain of which, with a benevolence of heart which does him infinite honor, set sail immediately, against a head wind; and thus, Mr. Robinson bade adieu to the Spanish castles, jails and dungeons, to inhale once more the wholesome air of his own native land of liberty. Capt. Bissell, of the schr. Ghent, from Maranham, has politely furnished the Reading Room with the following:—

"American vessels are not admitted in this port without their Custom House clearances particularly mentioning the ports of destination, the marks, packages and Nos. of their cargoes—also regular invoices of the same must be certified by the Portuguese Consul, and if there be no such Consul, the invoices must be certified by the respective Collectors, attesting at the same time, under his official seal, that there is no Portuguese Agent or Consul at such port.

"Masters of vessels are therefore requested to provide themselves with the above mentioned documents, as also with a regular Bill of Health, and thus they will avoid trouble and inconveniency.

PIRATICAL PROCEEDINGS.

We stated briefly in our Friday's paper, that 16 of the crew of the Piratical brig Irresistable were committed to the jail of this Borough, charged with plundering the schr. Superior,; since then we have collected the following particulars: After the crew had mutinied and taken possession of the Irresistable, at Margarita, they appointed John F. Furguson, commander, and James Black 1st lieut.; she then sailed from Margarita with a crew of 115 men, but without any commission whatever, bound on a cruise, during which they boarded about 40 vessels, among which was the schr. Superior, of Baltimore, bound from St. Jago de Cuba to New-Orleans, with passengers; which vessel they fell in with about the 1st April, off Cape Antonio.—The captain of the Superior being sent for on board the Irresistable, produced his papers, showing that the Superior was an American vessel, belonging to the port of Baltimore. The captain of the piratical vessel then sent the captain of the Superior on board his own vessel, accompanied by a boat's crew of the pirates, who were ordered by their officers to make a strict search for Spanish property, and to bring what they might find on board the Irresistable,, but to respect American property.—This latter injunction however, did not meet the approbation of the crew, who with one voice exclaimed "that they had risqued their lives in taking the brig—that they were in search of plunder, and plunder they would have." They (the crew) then directed the boats crew that were going to search the Superior, to bring whatever articles of value they could find; and in consequence of this order the boat made three trips to and from the Superior, and brought away from her two silver watches, about two dozen finger rings, a large number of earings, braceletts, breast pins, and other valuable articles, which, by the direction of their officers were secured in the magazine with the money and other things taken from other vessels. The whole of their plunder was afterwards sold at public auction on board the Irresistable, and the amount of sales distributed among the crew in equal proportions, except the captain and lieutenant, who received, the former three and the latter two shares.—The crew then took the brig into the Chesapeake; where the lieutenant and 22 of the men left her and came up to Norfolk in the steam boat Virginia.

It is further stated, that part of the crews of some of the vessels which the Irresistable boarded subsequently to plundering the Superior, joined the pirates; they however, knew of the fact and received their share of the booty.

The following are the names of the crew who were apprehended in this town; John Allen, John Green, Thomas Smelt, John Fuller, Henry Andris, Francis Ogilsbie, John Dunnels, Bailey Durfey, Samuel Pool, Peter Nelson, Wm. Chapel, Danl. Phillips, John Waldro, Isaac ——, Peter Johnson, Luke Jackson:—the three last are colored persons.

☞In the communication which appeared in this paper on Wednesday last, of the proceedings of the convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church of Virginia, the name of the Hon Bushrod Washington, as one of the managers of the Missionary society was omitted.

Mr. Editor,

KNOWING that there is a number of the most worthless of society, who make it a business to spread evil reports respecting the solvency of banks in the different parts of the United States, for the purpose of depreciating and purchasing their paper. I feel it is my duty to give a list of the Banks of the District of Columbia, that it may be made known to all persons in every part of the Union, that the said Banks do pay specie for their notes, on demand, and that they are justly entitled to the highest credit and standing, and that they are opposed to a suspension of specie payments, and will be the last in the country that will agree to such a measure. This communication is made to prevent imposition, and to inform all persons who may have the paper of those banks, in any part of the Union, that they may hold it as so much specie. Persons emigrating and travelling north, south or west, would do well by taking the notes of these banks, as they will always find them equal to specie, and often to command a premium of 5 to 10 per cent, for remittances to Baltimore, Philadelphia & New-York. To my numerous acquaintances (trading men,) and the community, I pledge myself for the foregoing.

The following are the banks of this district that pay specie for their notes on demand, viz:

The Farmers' and Mechanics' Bank of Georgetown,
Central Bank of Georgetown & Washington,
Union Bank of Georgetown,
Bank of Columbia,
Bank of the Metropolis,
Patriotic Bank of Washington,
Bank of Washington,
Bank of Alexandria,
Union Bank of Alexandria,
Farmers' Bank of Alexandria,
Bank of Potomac,
Branch Bank of the United States at Washington.

I hold myself responsible for the foregoing declaration to the public. Done at my Exchange Banking House, Bridge-street, Georgetown, this 26th day of May, 1819.
ROMULUS RIGGS.

Editors of newspapers throughout the United States, by giving the above a few insertions, will greatly benefit the community.

Gunston for Sale.

THIS elegant estate is situated on the Potomac, 16 miles below Alexandria—it is bounded on three sides by the Potomac and Pohick creek, and contains nearly 3,000 acres of land, level and fertile, to which are attached six shad and herring fisheries, two of which command the river channel. This land will be laid off in four tracts, so as to have one or more fisheries to each; these tracts will be again divided if requisite. This estate is level and beautifully situated, very fertile, and remarkably healthy. Plaister acts with an effect equal to that of any part of Virginia or Pennsylvania.—I have used 500 bushels in twelve months, and such is its beneficial operation, that were I to keep this land I should considerably increase the quantity. A manufacturing mill is distant about two miles, on a stream navigable for vessels carrying 1200 bushels of wheat, where the Baltimore and Dist. of Columbia prices are given for grain: being bounded on 3 sides by water, a small extent only of fence is necessary to inclose the whole: it would be admirably adapted to grazing. The improvements are a large and very substantial brick mansion, 40 by 70 feet, with every necessary outhouse, three commodious barns, houses for Negroes, and fish houses at each of the fisheries. 120,000 bricks and 1000 bushels of lime are just burnt on the premises. There is a considerable extent of live fence, both useful and ornamental, two orchards of well selected apples and peach, besides an abundance of other choice fruit. More than 150 acres are in clover, 200 in corn, and land is in preparation for sowing 250 bushels of small grain. Any quantity of hay can be cut from the low grounds, some of which (and all might,) have been reclaimed at a trifling expense. The river and creeks, abound with wild fowl, particularly canvass backs, the woods with deer and a variety of other game. Mules, cattle, highly improved sheep, farming utensels and household furniture can be had. The terms of sale will be accommodating. Property in any of the cities, negroes, bank stock, western lands, or lands near the Ridge, will be taken in payment.—Letters must be addressed to me at Pohick Church, Fairfax county, Virginia.

Valuable Property for Sale.

THE subscriber is desirious of selling a handsomely situated farm, on Hunting creek, in Fairfax county Virginia, adjoining the Mount Vernon estate and the lands of general Thomson Mason, four miles from Alexandria, containing about 240 acres, 80 of which are in wood—40 to 50 in thriving meadow of clover and timothy—a part of the residue recently seeded with wheat and rye, and clover, last spring—the whole enclosed with a new post and rail fence.—The improvements are, a comfortable and convenient frame dwelling house and kitchen, smoke house, poultry house, granary and stables.—There is on this place a rich and productive garden, and a large body of marsh meadow, from which may be saved annually 100 tons of hay, nearly as nutricious as the best timothy or clover.—With the farm would be sold a number of very valuable horses, cows and sheep; waggon, carts, and a variety of farming utensils and household and kitchen furniture; corn, oats and rye, and 40 tons hay. Also, adjoining the one above described, a farm containing 160 acres, recently enclosed, on which is a brick house, which a trifling expense would render comfortable. The soil is excellent, and a considerable part might be easily converted into meadow.—it would be sold with the other or separately. Also, a number of valuable servants, male and female. To prevent unnecessary application, he would observe, that they will only be sold to persons residing in the District or its vicinity, and not to be carried from it. The subscriber will also sell the greater part of his household furniture, which is new and handsome. For terms of all or any part of the above property, apply to NOBLET HERBERT, esq. or 100 Dollars Reward.

IS known to have been kidnapped from a field near Germantown, between the hours of 12 and 2 o'clock, on the 30th ult. whilst at work alone, a Free Black Man, named HENRY HUDSON, aged between 21 and 22 years, of the height of five feet five inches, very black complexion and dark eyes, has a scar under his left arm, between the wrist and elbow, occasioned by the cut of an axe.

He is by occupation a farmer, a native of Kent county, in the state of Delaware, had on a blue cloth roundabout jacket, old black silk vest, corded velvet pantaloons, and a wool hat.

He is a very civil, inoffensive man, with rather a down look. There is reason to suppose that he was decoyed into a carriage, and conveyed southward.

Any information respecting him will be thankfully received. Keepers of turnpike gates, toll bridges, and taverns, are particularly requested to give such information as may be in their power.

The above reward will be cheerfully paid on conviction of the perpetrators of this flagrant outrage upon the rights of a freeborn citizen of the United States.

ROMULUS RIGGS,

AT his office, next door below Crawford's tavern, Bridge-st. Georgetown, will exchange all kinds of Bank Notes on the most reasonable terms.—All persons who may have notes on the banks of North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia, would do well to call on him, as he is largely in the purchase of that kind of money, and will take it on the most reasonable terms.—Persons travelling to the Western Country may at all times get the Bank Notes of the Western Banks at a fair discount, by calling at his Office. For the information of all persons throughout the U. States, R. Riggs makes it known, that all of the Banks of the District of Columbia pay their notes on demand in specie; and it would be much to the advantage of the merchants, and trading to the South and west, to encourage the circulation of the Notes of the Banks of Georgetown, Washington and Alexandria, as it will at all times answer for remittances to the large commercial and Atlantic towns;—all persons emigrating or travelling to the westward should be very particular and take the Notes of the Banks of the District of Columbia, as they will find them the most current, there being no counterfeits on the District Banks. The Merchants' Bank of Alexandria has long since failed—all persons should be on their guard, as they will be imposed on. August 18

T. W. MAURICE,

March 17 Capt. Eng. Supt.

The National Intelligencer and Maryland Gazette are requested to insert the above for two weeks and forward their accounts to this office.

To the Printers of the United States.

GENTLEMEN: In presenting a list of new prices of types, some explanatory remarks may be useful. The former prices were fixed during a period in which the raw materials were dear, and not easily to be procured, and it is presumed that they had some claim to be considered moderate, as in 1812 type were more than 3 per cent lower in Philadelphia than in London; and no advance was made on those prices during the late war, although existing circumstances would have justified the measure. It was considered that an advance would be an actual loss to the printers, as the competition in the printing business had, before that period arrived at such a point, that the public were supplied with printing at nearly the minimum; and also, that it was probable the price of types would continue sometime after the return of peace, and recompense for any advantage that was given up. This has taken place.

For some time past, types have been lowered in value but not in price. They have been sold on long and frequently uncertain credit, which produces to the seller all the effects of reduction of price, whilst to the printer who pays, it is comparatively of little benefit. All the advantages are in favor of those who promise, but do not perform, as, in truth, they get types for nothing, and the solvent printers pay for them. Another objection to this mode of reducing price is, that it absorbs the seller's funds, and, no matter how industrious or frugal he may be, subjects him to all the inconveniences of poverty.

Men who possess talents, economy, industry and honor, will sometimes lack money. The characters who have just claims to those attributes will rarely be at a loss for friends, and will enter on business with a more favorable prospect of success, when assisted by a moderate, than by an extended credit, which is equally within the reach of a rival, who, with an ardent disposition for speculation, and adventure, may have but doubtful claims to reputation and prudence.

In order to leave no ground for complaint, it is to be understood that all purchasers, since the 1st of April, who comply with the new terms, will be entitled to benefit by the new prices.

Presuming on the long intimacy which has subsisted between you, gentlemen, and this establishment, I request you will give this an insertion in your papers.

Yours, respectfully,

JAMES RONALDSON.

Charlotte Hall School.

THE board of trustees for Charlotte Hall school deem it their duty to announce to the public, the present flourishing condition of this institution. Since the introduction of the present professors, the school has rapidly progressed in the public estimation.

When Philip Briscoe, esq. was called to assume the office of Principal, there were but 27 pupils. The liberality of the State Legislature of 1817, enabled the trustees to retain his services and those of Mr. Miltimore for the classical department—the Reverend Mr. Neale H. Shaw has also been retained as professor of mathematicks, and he is aided in that department by Mr. Sweetsee, a gentleman in high estimation as a professor. Under the management of these gentlemen the school has now 95 boys; and very many applications have already been made for entrance and board. Heretofore a portion of the boys have been compelled to board at the neighboring houses at too great a distance from the school; the trustees are now making arrangements which will enable fifty boys more to be accommodated immediately at the school; so that at all times the Principal will be enabled to exercise a general superintendance over their moral deportment (to the corruption of which, the boys in this retired village have but few temptations). The board will remark to those who are unacquainted with this place, that no part of Maryland is more distinguished for its general healthiness. The price of board is only 100 dollars a year. The tuition is now but 28 dollars a year! It will be raised after August to 32 dollars—a price much lower, however, than any of the public schools of our state.

It is intended then by the trustees to select four boys (of poor and indigent parents) of promise, and to board, clothe, and educate them entirely at the expense of the institution, and afterwards to labor to procure them that station to which their talents and conduct may entitle them.
